

“If I have a problem, my first stance should be – “What questions can I ask about it?” – instead of getting into a state of tension trying to get the answer from what I already know.”

Robert Greenleaf